What is urban planning?

Urban Planning is an opportunity to make things better, to improve lives.

It's shaping and creating a thriving environment for people to live, work and play.

What do I learn?

The programme concentrates on urban spaces, with a fundamental focus on urban design. It's a good mix of theory and practice, its academics are leaders in the field and features small class sizes.

Here, you have the opportunity to study in the urban centre of the country.

Do I need to know how to draw?

It doesn't hurt if you do, but it's not necessary.

We can teach you all the skills you'd need to succeed in these programmes.

Will I get a job?

According to careers.govt.nz website:

“Chances of getting work as an urban/regional planner are good due to strong demand for workers. One reason for this is the high level of population growth in New Zealand's main centres. Opportunities for employment are greater in Auckland than in the rest of New Zealand. According to a New Zealand Planning Institute Survey, 52% of employers who responded reported difficulties in filling vacancies for urban/regional planners. There are approximately 2,500 urban/regional planners working across New Zealand.”
