

Call for Papers

The Europe Institute at The University of Auckland publishes the New Zealand Journal of Research on Europe (previously known as the Europe-New Zealand Research Series). The traditional strength of this refereed journal lies in integrating Asia-Pacific perspectives and European themes, and we encourage submissions examining Europe-New Zealand relations and shared concerns, especially from a New Zealand perspective. In the coming issues, however, we expect to publish articles with a broader view of Europe and its "neighbourhood". We thus invite the submission of individual articles as well as proposals for special issues on a wider range of topics for our journal.

Articles and proposals are welcome from any discipline, from business, economics and political science through to languages, literature, history and law, provided that the subject relates to Europe, past, present or future. Europe is defined as the entire continent from Iceland to Russia and may include all the former Soviet Republics (members of the Commonwealth of Independent States) and the European Neighbourhood, including Turkey and Israel.

To submit an article or an idea for a special issue of the New Zealand Journal of Research on Europe, please read the submission instructions and the style guide on our website (<http://www.europe.auckland.ac.nz/en/publications.html>) and contact the editor, Dr Ayelet Zoran-Rosen at ayelet.rosen@auckland.ac.nz.

New Zealand Journal of Research on Europe Prize

The Europe Institute offers a prize of 500$ each year for the best article published in the Journal by an emerging scholar (whose PhD was earned up to five years before the time of submission). Please state if you are eligible and wish to be considered at the time you submit your article for consideration.
