Equity in the News – September 2019

Disability

Health and disability review falls short for Māori RNZ, 8 Sept

School disability services fall short of rising demand Otago Daily Times, 9 Sept

NZ lagging on disability rights Otago Daily Times, 13 Sept

Disability Pride Week 16 to 21 September 2019 Scoop, 16 Sept

This Artist and Model Is Changing the Conversation Around Disability and Fashion Vogue, 17 Sept

Rainbow

Billy Porter becomes first openly gay man to win Emmy Award for best actor in a drama series CBS, 23 Sept

How our health system has severely failed trans and non-binary New Zealanders The Spinoff, 24 Sept

Transgender and non-binary people suffer high levels of mental health and discrimination issues, report finds TVNZ One, 24 Sept

Māori

Corrections’ plan to use te ao Māori to reduce Māori incarceration rates The Spinoff, 11 Sept

She aspired to be a doctor at 10, to ‘make a point’ that Māori can Stuff, 24 Sept

How can the mental health system better serve Māori? Newshub, 22 Sept

Pacific

UNFPA helps boost gender equality in Pacific RNZ, 24 Sept

Workplace

Simple steps to improve mental health and well-being in workplace Stuff, 18 Sept

Employer kindness can improve performance and mental health Medical News Today, 20 Sept