What’s new in 2015

New inquiry pathways in the Doctor of Education (EdD)

The professional Doctor of Education (EdD) degree offered at the University of Auckland is designed to meet the specific needs of working educational professionals. The Faculty of Education EdD inquiry pathways represent an innovative professional doctorate in education that explicitly aims to add high levels of quality and relevance to your work - features not found consistently in EdD or PhD programmes offered at other universities.

In 2015, internationally recognised researchers in the School of Learning, Development and Professional Practice will lead a brand new inquiry pathway called Leadership of Educational Professional Practice. This will begin in March 2015.

This EdD will prepare leaders and practitioners in a variety of educational contexts such as early childhood education, primary, intermediate, secondary schools, inclusive education and tertiary settings for the application of appropriate and specific practices, the generation of new knowledge, and transformative improvement of the profession.

The Faculty of Education’s EdD is the only programme in New Zealand affiliated with the Carnegie Project, a consortium of over 80 colleges and schools of education around the globe, which have committed resources to work together to advance the Education Doctorate as the preferred choice for education professionals.

Your eligibility will need to be considered and any prerequisite, corequisite or other conditions must be met.

How to apply

Apply online. Once the application is received by the Education Student Centre you may be contacted by email for additional information about which courses you want to take and why.

Reassigning COP courses to a degree

After completing a COP, should you decide that you would like to go on to complete a University qualification you may be able to reassign the points from your COP.

A course, or courses, passed for a Certificate of Proficiency may be able to be reassigned toward a taught masters degree, a postgraduate diploma or a postgraduate certificate provided that:

• No more than 30 points are reassigned.
• The enrolment in the postgraduate qualification is no later than three semesters from the initial enrolment in the course(s) reassigned from Certificate of Proficiency.
• The application to reassign is made at the time you are admitted to the postgraduate qualification.
• The course is available in the schedule of the qualification to which it is reassigned.

For more information contact the University of Auckland. See also the University Calendar: www.calendar.auckland.ac.nz/regulations/other/COP.html

How to apply

First you need to apply

Go to www.apply.auckland.ac.nz and complete the Application for Admission. If you haven’t already, you’ll be asked to sign up for a new account. It’s easy, and you’ll soon be underway in making your application.

It is advisable to apply for the programmes that you might wish to study well before the closing date. Late applications submitted may be considered after the closing date if places are available.

You will receive an acknowledgement email asking you to provide certified documents (and in some cases to complete other requirements) before your application can be assessed.

Interviews are not generally required for postgraduate programmes but may apply for some programmes. You will be contacted and given a date if selected for an interview.

You can check your application status online at any time. Documents can take 3-4 weeks to process during peak admission periods. Some of your documents might take longer to process than others.

Your final offer of a place depends on two things: your admission to the University and your assessment by the relevant faculty. If your application is successful, we’ll email you an offer with instructions on how to accept the offer.

Next you need to enrol

Once you’ve accepted an offer of place in a programme, you can find out what courses you should enrol in at www.education.auckland.ac.nz/enrolment.
