Welcome

Kia ora. Welcome to Te Papa Ako o Tai Tokerau.

Te Papa Ako o Tai Tokerau, the Tai Tokerau Campus, has been in the heart of Whangārei for nearly 30 years and is dedicated to providing a range of programmes in education and teaching for those living in Northland. Each year our graduates march through the centre of Whangārei with great pride at the University's only graduation ceremony to be held outside the Auckland region.

Our current study options include two foundation programmes to prepare you for tertiary study, as well as teacher education programmes in English-medium and Māori-medium primary teaching. We are also able to provide postgraduate study options for teachers, and anyone interested in education and related areas.

Our students come from all over Northland and many start their study as adult students. Whatever your situation, we can support your aspirations and help you gain a university degree. Our students and graduates contribute immensely to the education and wellbeing of children in Tai Tokerau. You will see a few of them profiled here and on our website. Many have extended their work within the Northland community in areas such as youth development and advocacy and support, demonstrating the diverse range of knowledge and skills that teachers bring, share and cultivate in our community.

Others have gone on to work in teaching positions overseas and other areas of the country. Your qualification from the University of Auckland is your stepping stone to whatever you want to achieve. By choosing the University of Auckland you will gain a qualification from Aotearoa New Zealand's leading, world-ranked university, right here in the North. You can be confident that your kete will be filled with all the knowledge and expertise you need to support our tamariki to succeed in all that they do.

Te Papa Ako o Tai Tokerau, Tai Tokerau Campus

The University for Northland

Explore the opportunity of gaining an internationally recognised teaching qualification from the University of Auckland in the heart of Northland.

The University of Auckland is New Zealand's highest ranked university and the only New Zealand university to feature in the global top 50 for the subject of Education. As the country's top provider of employable, high-quality graduates, we are New Zealand's leading university for employer reputation.*

Located on Alexander Street in Whangārei, Te Papa Ako o Tai Tokerau, the Tai Tokerau Campus is a close-knit community of staff and students who aspire to make a difference through education in our communities. With approximately 150 students on campus and small class sizes you will get to know staff and fellow students well and experience a supportive and inclusive campus life.

By choosing to study here you will learn alongside researchers and lecturers who are committed to improving the educational and social wellbeing of individuals, expand your opportunities and achieve your full potential.

Postgraduate programmes and courses

Flexible study options for qualified educators

We offer personal academic advice and assistance to plan and complete your programme of study for an honours degree, postgraduate certificate or diploma, masters or doctorate in Education. Most of our programmes have flexible delivery options to meet the needs of people who are busy with work, family or other commitments.

Selected postgraduate courses for educators can be completed online. Some online courses may include a few on-campus days in Auckland or the Tai Tokerau Campus in Whangārei.

View our online study options:

education.auckland.ac.nz/online-study-options

Many courses are offered as “block” or “selected dates” at Epsom Campus in Auckland, meaning you only need to travel a few times to Auckland to complete the course. These courses are often during the school holidays and weekends. Courses usually also require independent study in addition to on-campus dates.

For more information see:

education.auckland.ac.nz/pg-study-options

Depending on your research area, supervision of your research thesis or dissertation can be undertaken by an academic staff member based at Tai Tokerau Campus or by distance with an Auckland-based supervisor.

Online enrolment is limited to students with access / ability to participate in practicum placements which will be available in the Northland and Auckland regions only.

Become a teacher in just one year

If you are interested in studying to become a teacher and already have a degree, the Graduate Diploma in Teaching is a one-year intensive programme that the University is now offering online for students based in Northland and within the Auckland Regional Boundary. This provides flexibility for you to undertake your study in Tai Tokerau. During the year, you will also undertake practical experience (up to 18 weeks) in schools or centres, which will also be based in Northland. You can choose to specialise in ECE, Primary or Secondary teaching. You will work alongside experienced teachers and be supervised by academic staff based at Tai Tokerau Campus.

Part time study options are available for the online Graduate Diploma in Teaching (Early Childhood specialisation).

“The faculty staff show manaakitanga, kotahitanga and aroha. They encourage us to always try our very best and give it everything we have.

“The Bachelor of Education (Teaching) Huarahi Māori specialisation allows me to gain valuable knowledge and work at the craft I need to create a space for our rangatahi ō āpōpō, like my grandparents once created for me.

“I am fortunate to have been placed in a wonderful collaborative class in Te Tai Tokerau. Although the class is not bilingual, the te reo Māori our kaiako incorporate into their teaching every day is outstanding. They model how a collaborative relationship can be successful, they encourage their students to be independent thinkers, and by incorporating the tuakana/teina method of practice they learn to scaffold off each other.

“I enjoy the interactive lessons as they enable me to break barriers and grow in confidence to share my ideas, thoughts and mahi in a public forum. Te Reo Māori gave mana back to my reo and encouraged my everyday use of the taonga tuku iho.

“My education began in te ao Māori, through attending both kohanga reo and kura kaupapa. To be able to work my way through Waipapa Taumata Rau with the aspiration of gaining a tohu in the education field is a privilege and honour. This is the future my tūpuna envisioned for their tamariki mokopuna.”

Student services and support

Your success in your chosen programme of study is important to us. We also want to make sure your study journey is an enjoyable one. The Faculty of Education and Social Work offers students at Te Papa Ako o Tai Tokerau, the Tai Tokerau Campus, a range of support services and facilities to help you succeed.

All students have access to academic support and other specialist services. There is a student common room, an Information and Communication Technology (ICT) suite and a branch of the faculty's Sylvia Ashton-Warner Library – one of the most extensive teacher education libraries in New Zealand.

The University of Auckland is committed to supporting the wellbeing of our students. From the very start of your academic journey with us, student mentors, academic and professional staff are on hand to support your transition to university study and student life.

Within the library is the Student Hub where you can access advice on applications, enrolment, entry requirements and any questions you may have about being a student at the University of Auckland.

The first year of university study can be challenging as you attempt to balance the demands of study, work, family and friends. The small and friendly campus atmosphere means you can have close connections with lecturers and staff as well as fellow students. You'll find it easy to approach people for the support you need.
