

Centre for Medical and Health Sciences Education (CMHSE)

Research Seminar Series

Monday 19 March 2018, 12noon - 1.30pm
Room 503-024, Grafton Campus

Ethnography of informal learning on a hospital ward

Dr Tanisha Jowsey

Lecturer, Centre for Medical and Health Sciences Education, The University of Auckland

What do clinicians learn while working in a clinical environment? And what is it about the environment that shapes such learning? Here I present on methods and findings from an observational study drawing on ethnographic methods, which was undertaken in a general medicine ward. I explore potential teaching and learning moments that occurred and were visible in the course of routine work.

There's an app for that: Digital tools and resources to equip, enable and support partnering with patients and clients to improve their health outcomes and wellbeing

Dr Janine Bycroft

MBChB, Dip Obs, Dip Paeds, MPH (Hons), FRNZCGP
Clinical Director, Health Navigator NZ

Patients have been described as the largest untapped resource. This presentation will provide an overview of digital tools, programmes and apps health providers can use within their clinical practice to support patient self-management and collaborative care. Attendees will also hear about the Health Navigator NZ website, the New Zealand Health App Library, criteria for evaluating apps and online tools and how academic and teaching staff can get involved to make this even better so all New Zealanders benefit.

RSVP to Doreen Presnall d.presnall@auckland.ac.nz

12noon – 12.30pm – light lunch and networking

12.30 – 1.30pm – Seminar presentations

If you are interested in presenting at one of our monthly seminars please email your idea to:

Yan Chen, yan.chen@auckland.ac.nz